Chapter 1 by Charles Lives

"Finally, after all this time waiting, finally i got a ticket to the biggest gaming event of the year!" Darwen exclaimed as he got the paper from the shady dealer, his emotion was so big that he has forgotten the place he was in, this street was dangerous and as far as he yelled, ten faces turned to him--ok now I AM in problems.

He started running as these shady people started to pursue him, but Darwen was not your ordinary gamer--he has been playing sports since he was very young, cross country, tennis and his favorite--tae kwong do. Yet he knew he was in no position to fight, this people were not going to fight by the rules, they will get his ticket to EONs at all costs. It was a revolutionary event after all, the opening of the first virtual reality fantasy MMORPG of the MaviX console. This tournament was all that he has ever wanted, he didn't want to just be a player--he wanted to be the best. He wanted to make gaming his living, he was tired of his parents telling him to get a proper job, he was tired of begging likes at Wazebook. He was going to take his position between the legends by assault!

He quickly lost all the pursuers and got out of the black market, but all he could think was, how was going to be the game? what type of classes would it have? what type of crafting system?

special powers--he has not been told much information of it, it's as if all employees of MaviX Co. were in on it, which was a very good sign of this game's quality. He decided to play it.

One day, just one day for the massive connection, all the contestants will enter MaviX Co. designated dome, and will be connected to the game, and nobody will disconnect until the winner of the tournament is announced. How to win? beat the game first, but--HOW?! and so Darwen passed his last day before the tournament.

Chapter 2 by CyberEye

It was now the tournament. Darwen was out of his mind scared he saw international gamers who were way better than him" he seemed like a grade-A noob compared to all these guys" he thought. He saw the international champion kid gamer Mike Scale. He saw the Amazing Minecrafter the Golden Minecart otherwise known as Ian TGM. And the first person shooter master Bryan Matrix. And last but definitely not least he saw his legendary idle the queen of street fighter and ti-kwon-do Jenny D. Not only was she skilled she was pretty hot too. Caramel skin black gaming gloves frost green eyes and dem legs were beautiful. As Darwen got lost looking at her there was an announcement. Are you Playerz readyyyy"said the announcer." Wait hold up don't we get a practice or some shit case i'm not ready" "NOPE" "man" Darwen said. Starrrrtttt. Then a gun appeared in his hand a virtual one of course. He combined his street-fighting skills with his fps he dodged, swepted the legs and shot at his head."Now that was'nt so hard wasn't it Darwen said. But when he was finished patting himself on the back Bryan Matrix came flying at him
